

A year without travel doesn't mean there was nothing to do

Posted on April 6, 2021 by News Editor

Travel writer Theresa Norton says although she hasn't traveled in more than a year, she has stayed busy writing about how the travel industry is coping with the pandemic. Among her story themes are trip cancellations and rebookings, as well as travel advisors helping clients get home before they faced being stranded.

