

A4A exec discusses post-pandemic air travel, recovery

Posted on July 6, 2021 by News Editor

Airlines for America Vice President of Security and Facilitation Lauren Beyer joined a virtual workshop last week to discuss the resurgence of domestic leisure travel as well as the post-pandemic obstacles still facing travelers. Restoring international travel to key markets is a key priority, and US airlines continue to “encourage a risk-based data-driven roadmap to reopen markets that prioritize the wellbeing of the traveling public,” Beyer said.

