

Alaska Airlines CEO reports uptick in business travel bookings

Posted on March 24, 2022 by News Editor

In an interview with CNBC, Alaska Airlines CEO Ben Minicucci said the carrier continues to see strong travel demand across its entire network, including more business travel bookings. “We’re seeing business bookings come back for the first time,” Minicucci said. “We’re seeing business bookings over 60% of what we were at 2019 levels, so it’s looking strong across all our markets.”

