

American pilot hopes to recruit the next generation

Posted on July 2, 2021 by News Editor

Capt. Lori Legat Cline is the first female pilot to reach the level of managing director at American Airlines, overseeing pilot recruitment and crew accommodations. Fostering the next generation of pilots, especially women pilots, means starting by encouraging science and math education in middle schools, she said, adding: “If you begin the process at the college level, it’s too late.”

