

Aviation played key crisis response role in 2021

Posted on January 4, 2022 by News Editor

While 2021 was a difficult year for aviation, it was also marked by increasing focus on sustainability and the industry's significant role in responding to crises. Airlines and cargo carriers transported COVID-19 vaccines, evacuated refugees from Afghanistan, airlifted supplies to Haiti and became more important than ever in moving cargo around the globe.

