

Inside the life of an aircraft maintenance engineer

Posted on December 23, 2021 by News Editor

Jenny Tung’s job at Air Canada is one that most passengers don’t see or even think about, but as an aircraft maintenance engineer, her work is crucial to ensuring they have a smooth flight — and it’s a job that she loves. “I don’t feel like I go to work every day,” Tung says, but rather that she is “going out to play with the airplanes.”

