

United invests in electric air taxi company

Posted on August 12, 2022 by News Editor

United Airlines made a $10 million investment in Archer Aviation, which manufactures short-haul electric aircraft resembling helicopters. The airline plans to use Archer's vehicles, which will be capable of helipad landings, to shuttle passengers between airports and the surrounding areas.

