Posted on December 17, 2024 by Business Editor

Valley Air Service has expanded its Part 135-certified fleet with the addition of a Citation XLS executive jet in November 2024. This move enhances the company's charter offerings, which now include two executive jets catering to premium air travel needs.

The newly added Citation XLS, registered as N97AJ (msn 560-5609), is an 18.8-year-old aircraft configured to accommodate up to nine passengers. The jet has been registered in the United States throughout its operational history and was privately operated before joining Valley Air Service's fleet. Known for its comfort and efficiency, the Citation XLS offers enhanced capabilities for mid-range charter flights.

The Citation XLS joins Valley Air Service's existing Citation II, a 41.1-year-old jet, under its Part 135 certificate. Both aircraft are based at Chicago West, enabling the company to provide flexible and reliable charter services to clients in the region and beyond.

The expansion underscores Valley Air Service's commitment to meeting the growing demand for executive air travel while maintaining a focus on providing high-quality service. By incorporating the Citation XLS into its fleet, the company is positioned to offer an upgraded flying experience with a balance of luxury and performance, appealing to both business and leisure travelers.
